

Meet John Schveibinz

Mr. Schveibinz holds a BSEE from Akron University, an MSEE from Johns Hopkins University, & a MAT from University of Maryland, Baltimore County. Mr. Schveibinz was a founder of Applied Signal & Image Technology (ASIT), and was lead engineer, VP and COO of the company from 1995 through 2009 which was acquired by L-3 Communications in 2005. Mr. Schveibinz was a board advisor and investor with Praxis Engineering from 2011 through acquisition in 2018. Mr. Schveibinz has continued to work as an engineering and business consultant, as well as a business mentor and small business advisor, and is currently a site miner and commercialization specialist in engineering and software applications at University of Maryland, Baltimore County. Mr. Schveibinz is also an active member of the Baltimore Angels and an advisor to the University of Baltimore and UMBC entrepreneurship programs.